Murder at Frank

Early on Monday morning the people of Frank were shocked by the news that the body of George Lakatoz was found dead on the path that leads to the old mine, between the tipple and the Old Man river. The body was discovered by Martin Kubek as he was going in with the horses to work on the 7 o'clock shift in the morning, he immediately reported to the lamp man and so the news spread.

After the report was given out, several who lived near reported hearing shots fired the night before, and when the body had been examined it was found that one bullet had entered his head just back of the ear, another pierced his back between the shoulders and a third had entered his arm near the elbow, the bullet being found in his sleeve.

The only conclusion that could be reached was that death was caused on Sunday night as George was on his way to work on the night shift, some time before 11 o'clock.

Coroner Pinkney was sent for immediately. After he arrived the body was removed to the Miner's hall where the union have taken charge of the body.

On Monday afternoon a jury was appointed consisting of Messrs. A. Hanson, A. V. Lang, Horston, H. Murphy, J. W. Gresham and L. Ryan. The Jury met on the afternoon of Monday to hold the inquest but as they were not through they sat again on Tuesday and adjourned to meet on Thursday at 2 o'clock.

The police have been working hard on the case ever since the body was found. Inspector Belcher, Detective Piper and Supt. Primrose arrived in the afternoon and a little later Sam Willinsky was arrested and is being held by the police until further information was secured.

How to Propose in a Legal way

To Anne Blank, of Blank, in the county of Blank, spinster, daughter of Edward Blank of the same place, gentlemen, and Mary his wife.

Madam:

WHEREAS I, the undersigned John Smith, am a bachelor of the age of twenty-eight years, and now and have been for three years and upwards in practice as an attorney and practitioner at law.

AND WHEREAS the net annual income and emoluments arising from the said practice of the said profession of law amounts to the sum of fifteen hundred dollars, in addition thereto I am seized of, or otherwise entitled to, real and personal property producing a further net annual income of $1000 or thereabouts making altogether with the aforesaid professional income a total income of $2 500 or thereabouts.

AND WHEREAS having regard to the several facts hereinbefore recited, I, the said John Smith, am in a position to maintain and keep a wife, and am desirous to enter the holy estate of matrimony.

AND WHEREAS on divers occasions in divers places I have observed, the manner, behavior, and demeanor of you, the said Anne Blank, and I have further made or caused to be made sundry inquiries and investigations concerning the character, disposition, habits, propensities, tastes, likes and dislikes of you, the said Anne Blank, and having thereby and by other and sufficient means duly satisfied myself that you, the said Anne Blank, are in all respects a fit and proper person to become the wife of me, the said John Smith.

AND WHEREAS after due and mature deliberation I have determined to make unto you the offer herein expressed.

Now in pursuance of such determination and for divers good causes thereunto moving, I the said John Smith do hereby respectfully, but subject nevertheless to the proviso contained in the final clause hereof, offer and tender unto you, the said Anne Blank, all that and those my heart, hand, body, soul, mind, understanding and affections, to be held by you to the use of you, the said Anne Blank, for and during the term of your natural life in case you shall predecease me, or for and during our joint lives in case I shall predecease you.

AND I HEREBY PROMISE AND DECLARE that in event of you the said Anne Blank, intimating to me in writing or otherwise within the date of seven days next after date, upon which the letter shall be served upon you or left for you at your last known place of abode, your acceptence of the offer hereby made, as aforesaid, I shall within a reasonable period thereafter, inter-marry with you the said Anne Blank at such church or in such building as you may select for that purpose, and will at all times thereafter during our joint lives at my own expense in all things maintain and keep you the said Anne Blank as my lawful wife.

PROVIDED ALWAYS and the offer hereby made as aforesaid is upon the express condition that if you the said Anne Blank shall not within the space of seven days after the delivery of this letter as aforesaid, intimate by writing or otherwise your acceptance of the said offer, the same shall therefore be absolutely null and void, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 23 rd day of Febuary A. D. 1912.

A basket social will be held in the church on March 5th. All ladies are invited to prepare baskets.

The newly organized band held a benefit concert and dance in the Socialist hall on Monday evening. The hall was taxed to its utmost capacity by a crowd which was kept convulsed with laughter and inspired by sentiment in turn throughout the evening. Every artist on the lengthy programme is worthy of special mention and the band rendered a quality of music such as the music lovers of the Pass are seldom privileged to hear. The Bellevue Sketch club again made their appearance and proved themselves more than ever the masters of amateur vaudeville. Much credit is due to Mr. Kelly for the able manner in which he occupied the chair. After dancing until a very early hour the merry party broke up after a long to be remembered evening.

Elephants Asleep

A question often raised in regard to the African elephant is whether these animals ever rest or not. At first blush it would appear that there could only be one answer to the question. So huge an animal must expend a terrific amount of energy and, therefore, as one might reasonably infer, must need more time than smaller animals for rest and reinvigoration. Nevertheless many travellers and some naturalists have asserted that the African elephant in its native state never sleeps, or at least never lies down. A correspondent who has sent photographs direct from Malek on the White Nile, says in the communication that accompanies them that the picture "represents a herd of female elephants photographed in the bush near Malek, in the Mogalla Province of the Anglo-Egyptian Soudan. It has been maintained that the African elephant never lies down to rest. Several may be seen thus sleeping.

SHE STRUCK AT ROOT OF TROUBLE

MRS. COMEAU CURED HER KIDNEYS WITH DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

And Her Heart Trouble, Backache and other ailments disappeared.—Says she owes her good health to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petit Rocher, Gloucester Co., N. B., (Special).—Wife, Mrs. Pierre L. Comeau, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place cured her kidney disease, her heart trouble and other aches and pains also disappeared. She cured her kidney disease easily and quickly by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My heart troubled me all the time," Mrs. Comeau states; "and I feared for the terrible result that might follow. My limbs would swell, my back ached and I was always tired and nervous.

"These symptoms led me to believe that kidney disease was the root of all my troubles, so I turned to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before I had finished the first box the swelling was gone, my back was well and my heart no longer troubled me. I am now in the best of health, and I owe it all to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Always strike at the root of the trouble. And in nine cases out of ten all women's troubles start with the kidneys. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills are woman's best friend.

A story of John Drew's wit is circulating on New York's rialto.

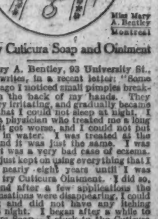

Mr. Drew, at a New England luncheon of turkey and pumpkin pie—turkey and pumpkin pie are nowhere better served than at Moupuin's—had the ill fortune to be scaled by a bore and failure.

This bore and failure, a tragedian, lamented the fact that he couldn't get a place as "lead," and put the blame upon the press.

"There's a conspiracy of silence against me," he said. "A universal conspiracy of silence. What ought I to do, Drew?"

"John H.," said Drew, nervously twisting up his moustache.

Eight Years of Bad Eczema on Hands

Miss Mary A. Bentley

Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Miss Mary A. Bentley, 93 University St., Montreal, writes, in a recent letter: "Some nine years ago I noticed small pimples breaking out on the back of my hands. They became very irritating, and gradually became worse, so that I could not sleep at night. I consulted a physician who treated me a long time, but it got worse, and I could not put my hands in water. I was then treated at the hospital, and it was just the same. I was told that it was a very bad case of eczema.

"Well, I just kept on using everything that I could for nearly eight years until I was advised to try Cuticura Ointment. I did so, and I found after a few applications the irritating sensations were disappearing. I could sleep well, and did not have any itching during the night. I began after a while to use Cuticura Soap, a stock to the Cuticura treatment, and thought if I could use other remedies for over seven years with no result, and after only having a few applications and finding ease from Cuticura Ointment, it deserved a fair trial with a severe and stubborn case. I used the Cuticura Ointment and Soap for nearly six months, and I am glad to say that I have hands as clear as anyone. It is my wish that I may publish the letter to all the world, and if anyone doubts it, let them write me."

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., 24 Columbus Ave., Boston, U.S.A.

W. N. U. No. 882.

THE USES OF HORSE HAIR

White Hair Made Into Violin Bows—Black Ones for Variety of Purposes.

The subject of the preparation of horse-hair for commercial purposes is a very attractive one, the process being curious and very elaborate.

The horse-hair arrives in bales, weighing about half a ton each, and valued at $600. The chief sources of supply are Great Britain, North and South America, Australia, Germany, Russia and China. The tails supply the best hair because they are hard, the manes being soft, and therefore of inferior value.

The long hairs are suitable for particular purposes, but those of ordinary length are prepared for stuffing furniture and other upholstering work.

The hair is first sorted over suction screens, which draw out and carry away the dust. Color forms the first basis of classification, black, white and grey hair being sorted out, and after this the hair is divided up, according to its various lengths and its quality. That which is to appear black is dyed in logwood, washed and dried. Then the various hairs are mixed in separate heaps, to make stuffings of various values. After this the material passes through a series of mixing machines or mills, provided with exhaust to extract any dust which remains.

The hair is now spun into ropes, which are again twisted on themselves, and by a third operation further twisted into a convolute shape. They are then soaked in cold water for two hours, after which they are baked in a temperature of over 350 degrees Fahrenheit for twelve hours. This damp heat destroys all nacceria life that might possibly exist in the hair, and also fixes the curl, and the ropes are hung up to cool for three days.

The inferior qualities are then untwisted and carded by machinery while the good qualities are opened out and carefully hand-carded.

The very finest grades cost up to $1.75 a lb. wholesale, and as it takes about forty pounds of hair to make a full-sized mattress, it will be seen that the cost to the ordinary individual is rather prohibitive. The late Queen Victoria was very partial to horse-hair mattresses, and always insisted upon having the best quality of white horse-hair.

The longest tails come from China and Russia. These are first disinfected, then they are dipped in a bath of soft soap and soda, after which they are wet hackled to get out all the short fur. The sorted hairs are dry carded, being piled up on a board studded with long pins, and drawn from the two ends between an old razor and the thumb to lengths of five inches.

White hair, which is 30 in ches in length and upwards is used for violin bows. Black hair, which is slightly stronger, is used for bows for double basses. Shorter hair, according to its length, is tied into bundles, and is sold to brush makers or to plume makers for ornamenting helmets and the bridles of cavalry horses.

Long hair is also extensively employed for weaving into cloth for upholstery, in which a linen warp is used, and also in making the cloth which tailors use for stiffening the garments, when it receives a warp of cotton.

The official wigs of judges and barristers are made from specially picked out hair, known as "dead" hair, because it has no glint upon it.

The hair from the tails of cows and oxen is also used for one or two purposes. The cows' tails are dressed whole and undyed for export to South Africa for the use of the native. The natives insist on the hair being undyed, and they plait it into bangles and over snuff-boxes, as well as combine it with the wire which is wound round sjamboks and sticks. They also use it for threading beads.

Cow hair is also drawn for weaving into sieve bottoms, to form strainers for cooks and gunpowder manufactories, while horse-hair bags are used for oil and cider presses and for brewers' straining cloths.

Lastly, goats hair from China and Tibet, being very soft, is used in the manufacture of babies' brushes.

An undersized yokel approached a sergeant in the barrack yard of one of our military depots.

"I want to join the army, please," he said.

The sergeant looked him up and down and replied: "You cannot join the army, my lad, you are too small."

"Too small!" said the youth. "What about that fellow over there!"

"But he is an officer."

Oh, is he?" exclaimed the youth. "Well, I'm not particular; I'll join the officers."

Sergeant Cockle, who was a rough, blustering fellow, once got from a witness more than he gave. In a trial of a right to a fishery he asked the witness, "Dost thou love dgit?"

"Aye," replied the witness with a grin, but I donna like Cockle sauce with it!"

The roar of laughter which echoed through the court rather disturbed the learned sergeant.

"Miss Tenspot always declared that she wouldn't marry an angel from Heaven," announced Mr. Gazzam, and yet she is actually engaged to marry young Mr. Skidmore."

"That's all right," commented Mr. Gazzam. "No one who knows Skidmore will accuse him of being an angel from Heaven."

The Human Body

Accepting 134 pounds as the weight of the average man, we find that water alone accounts for 109 pounds of the whole. Every fibre and every cell that enters into the formation of the human body is bathed in moisture, and even the bones, which appear to be so solid are more than half water. That our bodies are full of water is proved by the blisters that arise after the infliction of a burn. In fact, water plays a very important part in the human anatomy, and but for its agency the vital process would soon cease.

A Mild Pill for Delicate Women.—The most delicate woman can undergo a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills without fear of unpleasant consequences. Their action, while wholly effective, is mild and agreeable. No violent pains and purgings follow their use, as thousands of women who have used them can testify. They are, therefore, strongly recommended to women, who are more prone to disorders of the digestive organs than men.

Robert Herrick, the author, was talking at a luncheon in Chicago about literary figures.

"Figures," he said, "are only good when they illuminate, when they underscore or thicken one's meaning.

"As I passed a building operation the other day I heard the foreman employ an excellent figure.

"'What are ye' doin' up there, Smith?' he shouted from the pavement.

"A head appeared above and an injured voice replied:

"'Layin' bricks, of course.'

"'Well, by gosh,' said the foreman, 'from yer silence ye might be layin' eggs.'

Stops a Cough Quickly --Even Whooping Cough

Sixteen Ounces of the Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy for 50c—Money Refunded If It Fails.

If you have an obstinate, deep-seated cough, which refuses to be cured, get a 50-cent bottle of Pinex, mix it with home-made sugar syrup and start taking it. Inside of 24 hours your cough will be gone, or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is quickly conquered in this way.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, when mixed with home-made sugar syrup, gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of the finest cough remedy that money could buy, at a clear saving of $2. Very easy to prepare —full directions in package.

Pinex soothes and heals the inflamed membranes with remarkable rapidity. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative, and has a pleasant taste—children take it willingly. Splendid for croup, asthma, bronchitis, throat tickle, chest pains, etc., and a thoroughly successful remedy for insistent lung troubles.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other healing pine elements. It has often been imitated, though never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a 16-ounce bottle, and it is ready for use.

Anyone who tries Pinex will quickly understand why it is used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you, if not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Virtue is Its Own Reward

Brannigan.—What's the matter, Willikin?

Willikin.—Matter enough. You know some time ago I assigned all my property to my wife to—to keep it out of the hands of—of people I owe money, you know.

"Yes."

"Well, she's taken the money and gone off—says she won't live with me because I swindled my creditors."

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Sirs.—I have used your MINARD'S LINIMENT for the past 25 years and whilst I have occasionally used other liniments I can safely say I have never used any equal to yours.

Sure Method

Gayboy.—I have come, sir, to ask for your daughter's hand.

Pater Familias.—Have you spoken to her yet?

Gayboy.—Not yet. That's why I've come to you. I want you to refuse your consent so as to make sure of her.

Angry Wife.—I wish I were dead and cremated and my ashes put in an urn on your dressing table; then perhaps you would be sorry.

Facetious Monster.—My dear, that wouldn't end the family jars—it would only begin them.

Shiloh's Cure
quickly stops coughs, cures colds, heals the throat and lungs 25 cents.

Father's Requirements

"And are you positive that you can support my daughter?"

"I think that I can make both ends meet."

"That isn't sufficient. The man who marries my daughter must not only make both ends meet, he must be able to make them overlap."

The champion stingy church congregation has been found in Marshalltown, Ia. The pastor of the Friends' Church there resigned when his flock voted to cut his salary from $1,000 a year to $800. That was bad enough, the pastor thought, for a man with a wife and six children to support, and he decided it was rubbing it in for the church to demand that he keep account of all fees received and credit the amount on his reduced stipend. He has quit in disgust.

And a Bargain at That

A little boy has got into the habit of saying "Darn," of which his mother naturally did not approve.

"Dear," she said to the little boy, "here is ten cents, it is yours if you will promise me not to say 'Darn' again."

"All right, mother," he said, as he took the money, "I promise."

As he lovingly fingered the money, a hopeful look came into his eyes, and he said: "Say, mother, I know a word that's worth fifty cents."

Specialization

Doctor.—What can I do for you?

Patient.—I have cut my index finger.

Doctor.—Very sorry. But I am a specialist on the middle finger.

On His Guard

Teacher (to new pupil)—Why did Hannibal cross the Alps, my little man?

My Little Man.—For the same reason as the hen crossed the road. Yer don't catch me with no puzzles.

What He Kept Back

Lawyer—I must know the whole truth before I can successfully defend you.

Prisoner.—Except where I hid the money, I want that for myself.

"Mary," said the sick man to his wife, after the doctor had pronounced it a case of smallpox, "if any of my creditors call, tell them that I am at last in a position to give them something."

Business Proposition

"See here, Mr. Sands," said Mrs. Tompkins to the grocer, "what do you mean by giving me only nine-tenths of a pound of cheese when I am paying for a pound?"

"In selling Swiss cheese, my dear madame," said the grocer with dignity, "business caution prompts me to allow myself 10 per cent for the holes, which, as you must be aware, make no impression on the most delicately adjusted scales."

The Pill That Brings Relief.—When after one has partaken of a meal, he is oppressed by feelings of fulness and pains in the stomach, he suffers from dyspepsia, which will persist if it be not dealt with. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the very best medicine that can be taken to bring relief. These pills are specially compounded to deal with dyspepsia, and their sterling qualities in this respect can be vouched for by legions of users.

Proper Place

His Friend.—There's a tipless hotel down the street a little way. Let's go down.

Jiggs—Just the place. These other ones here are tipping something awful.

A Domestic Firm

First Omaha Man (in surprise).—What. Back already? Why, I thought you were going to see Europe?

Second Omaha Man (cheerfully).—So did I, but it seems that New York saw me first.

More than one-third of the new gold now produced in this country goes into the arts and manufacturers. Ten years ago the proportion put to this use was only one-fifth of the total production, or $18,000,000. Last year the amount was $34,000,000, or nearly double that of ten years ago. This left $62,000,000 for coinage and other purposes.

"I invited Bronson to go to the Maine woods hunting, but he refused on the ground that he was too sensitive."

"Too sensitive? I don' understand."

"He said he couldn't stand being made game of."

"How were you on athletics in college, son?"

"I was good at relay events, dad."

"That's what I understood. Well, you can just relay all the carpets your ma took up last spring."

And They Kick Too

Pat was standing near the car track when he noticed an automobile coming up the street and to be safe he stopped back a little from the car track.

The auto went passed, and just as it was passing, the driver had occasion to turn off the track, causing the back end of it to swing around striking Pat and knocking him down.

Pat was seen to get up and look after the car and say, "Now, p'hat do ye think o' that—whin ye stand in front o' thim, they run over ye; and whin you git out of the way to let thim pass they turn around and kick ye."

LUCKY THIRTEENTH

The Situation Was Severe, but Dorothy Was Game.

By INA WRIGHT HANSON.

The sky was blue, the ocean bluer and Dorothy's eyes the fairest blue of all. The sand was white, the breeze caressing, and Dorothy seemed unusually susceptible. I judged it to be an auspicious time to declare my feelings, so I began:

"Dorothy, dear, I have wealth through no fault of my own, social status ditto and a moderately good disposition. I love you. Will you marry—"

To my surprise, Mistress Dorothy sprang to her knees, crying, "Don't, don't!" and clapped her small hand over my mouth.

"Very well, then, I won't," I said.

"Oh, but I want you to!" was the next astounding development, while she dropped down on the sand again, bowed her head and wept.

I thought I was used to Dorothy's moods, but I realized then that my knowledge concerning them was small. As I didn't know what else to do, I just sat still. Finally she raised her head from the sanctuary of her hands and looked at me reproachfully.

"Oh, George, I've been waiting a whole year to hear you say it, and now why couldn't you have said it differently?"

I sat up a little straighter. "How should you wish me to approach the subject?" I inquired coldly.

"Of course you don't understand, poor boy!" she sighed, poking back behind her pink ear a little damp brown curl. "I have a chum at home, and we were always thinking of something that no one else would. One day she said, 'Let's make vows. So we each took a piece of paper and wrote on it a vow which we were bound to keep if we were—were—hanged for it. Nell's vow was—"

"Never mind Nell's vow," I said. "What was yours?"

"I vowed I wouldn't marry a man who didn't propose to me in a way no other man ever did."

"Ever proposed to you?" I asked jealously.

"No, no! Ever proposed to anybody. I vowed, so I have to keep it. Oh, George, I've just lived to have you say it in some strange way!"

"There's no law against a fellow's proposing twice, is there?" I asked.

She looked up eagerly. "Oh, you haven't said it yet, you know! I stopped you. Do you suppose you could think of some original way?"

"Well, I'll try mighty hard. But what a fool thing for you to do anyway!"

"I know it," she acknowledged, with unusual meekness

As our afternoons at Santa Monica were devoted to the surf, we met again in front of the bathhouse and, hand in hand, walked toward the seething breakers. She looked more charming than ever in her black suit, banded with scarlet, and a scarlet handkerchief knotted about her small head.

"Heavens, Dorothy, how I love you!" I exclaimed as we emerged from our plunge through the first swell.

"And I love you, too, dear," she murmured, coloring a little. "You will find some way, won't you?"

"Yes, if I have to pick you up some day and run off with you."

"That wouldn't do. Some of the savages behave that way. It isn't the doing anyway; it's the asking."

"Dorothy Allen, see that swell coming? When it gets here I'll hold you under it till there isn't a breath left in your body if you don't say you'll marry me."

"It isn't original," she persisted. "The man Nell's engaged to said almost that."

"Darn the man, and Nell, too!" I said viciously under my breath. I didn't try any more that day, but she allowed me one kiss as we sat on the raft, and that was something.

It would be a wearisome task to relate all the ways in which I tried to propose to Dorothy that summer. I lay awake nights trying to think of some bold and woolly way to ask her to marry me, only to face bitter defeat by being told that some other John had said the same to his Joan. Dorothy's knowledge on the subject seemed prodigious. It would have looked suspicious to me had she not really felt as bad as I did over my inability to be original.

The summer was almost gone. A certain Thursday was to mark Dorothy's departure for her New York home. On the Tuesday before we, with a gay party, were to visit Mount Lowe.

Dorothy's pretty lips read the description from the guidebook as we left Los Angeles and were borne swiftly through suburban places toward the fog wreathed mountains. The rest of the crowd was considerate of oblivious of us two, so finally I made bold to interrupt.

"Dorothy, this has got to end. I am losing my appetite, and I can't sleep nights. I have tried twelve times. If I can't find a way to suit you on this trip I am off for Africa or Shanghai next week. You needn't look incredulous. I am in dead earnest."

"Seems as though you might think of something," she replied.

"And if I do you are going to marry me right away and let me go home with you." I went on, ignoring the reproach of her remark. "I deserve something for all I've gone through."

She didn't say yes! but on the other hand, she didn't say no, so I felt fairly confident.

"Echo mountain!" called the conductor. "Change cars for Alpine tavern! Five minutes' wait!"

On the right were the ruins of a hotel, which we went over to observe. Here we found a cannon, mounted and ready for business.

"That," said the man who had been there before, "is fired off occasionally to show the marvelous power of echo. It reverberates here, yonder, to the right, the left, many times over."

I grasped Dorothy's hand and drew her away from the crowd.

"Darling," I whispered. "I'm going back on this car, and I'm going to marry you tonight. Wait here or at the observatory yonder. When you get tired of observing, pick your wedding bouquet, for you will need it as soon as I get back. Goodby, sweetheart." And before she could do anything but stare at me in a half frightened, wholly charming way I had caught the down car and was out of her sight.

Once the car reached Los Angeles I was out, tearing along the sidewalk to the courthouse, where the smiling county clerk favored me with the precious bit of paper which would allow me to wed my Dorothy.

"Do you know anything about any of the preachers in this town?" I asked, wiping my perspiring forehead.

His smile broadened. "Well, if it is a runaway match I shouldn't advise you to tackle the Methodist. A trifle narrow is Mr."—

"It isn't a runaway match," I answered hastily, "but for certain reasons I want the services of a young man."

"Mr. B. of the Unitarian is about your age, I should judge."

"He's the man. Where can I find him?"

After getting definite directions I fled down the courthouse steps. I found Mr. B., who when he had heard my story laughed immoderately, but, as I thought a young man would, consented to go with me. Consequently the last car for Altadena and Mount Lowe found him on board, together with a huge, awkward parcel which I had purchased on the way to the station.

As the car reached Echo mountain I found a laughing, much larger crowd than we had started with and in their midst Dorothy, looking most uncomfortable, but holding in her little hands a bouquet of Indian paint brush, the gorgeous coloring matching well the hue of her own sweet cheeks.

"They've surmised something," I whispered to my companion. "Well, the more the merrier, I suppose; kind of tough on us, though."

At which speech I thought the minister was going to disgrace his cloth again by unseemly levity. The crowd drew back a little as I advanced toward Dorothy and introduced the reverend gentleman. I tucked her little trembling hand under my arm, and, with my great parcel under the other, the minister discreetly leading and after us the crowd, though not fully understanding the play, we wended our way toward the cannon mounted and ready for business.

I dropped Dolly's hand, tore the paper wrapping from my megaphone and put it to my lips.

"Dorothy!" I shouted, and first this hill, then that, here, there, yonder, repeated her sweet name.

I raised it to my lips again, and "Be mine!" sang out the hills. Then I laid it on the ground and held out my hand, while the women smiled and the men tossed up their hats in delight. The situation was severe, but my Dorothy was game. Blushing, tearful, yet happy withal, she gave me her hand, and the minister stepped forward with his little book.

True Riches and False.

"I remember my first childish comprehension of wealth," said the judge to his companions as they sat on the porch of the hotel in the hills. As he went on to explain it, the conception proved to be one which any person might be glad to hold through life.

"A new boy had come to school that day. I had been told that his father was a millionaire, with lots of money. Before school we looked upon him in bewilderment and whispered together that we'd 'just wait till we heard him recite.' Little barefooted Neddy Blake muttered warningly:

"'Jes' wait till we get him in a spellin' match. We'll put him out at the first word.'

"When I reached home that night my mother said:

"'What troubles you, boy? You look worried.'

"'Mother,' I said anxiously, 'are we rich?'

"A smile spread over her face.

"'My son,' she said promptly, 'we are rich—very rich—rich in generations of respectability.'

"I have never forgotten her reply," said the judge. "It has helped me many times when I have been tempted to mistake money for character."—Youth's Companion.

Cosmic Rocks.

One of the most curious facts about meteorites is that they often contain previously unrecognized minerals, although their chemical elements are familiar on the earth. One of the stones that fell in a meteoric shower at El Nakhla, twenty-five miles east of Alexandria, Egypt, on June 29, has been analyzed by Professor Stanislas Meunier at Paris. It is pentagonal in outline, about four inches long, an inch and a half broad and an inch thick. Its composition is peculiar, and Professor Meunier, believing that the mineral of which it consists is an entirely new compound, proposes to call it nakhlite. The source or sources from which meteorites come cannot yet be designated, but their customary great relative density suggests an origin in some massive body in space.

SHADOW PICTURES

New Art Originated by Guitry, the French Actor.

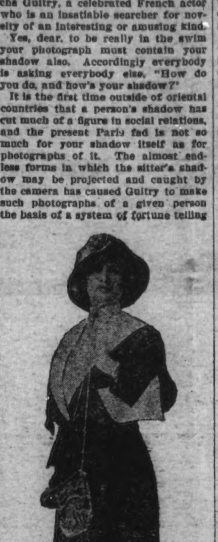

THE FEMININE HUMBUG.

Lots of Fun at a Sculpture Party. How to Arrange the Entertainment. New Women or Old, They All Like Frills and Furbelows.

My Dear Elsa—Have you had your shadow photograph taken? It's the smart wrinkle in art just now, and everybody I know is sitting for a Guitry. What's that? I'll tell you, my dear. It's the name of the man who invented the latest photographic whim, Sacha Guitry, a celebrated French actor who is an insatiable searcher for novelty of an interesting or amusing kind.

Yes, dear, to be really in the swim your photograph must contain your shadow also. Accordingly everybody is asking everybody else, "How do you do, and how's your shadow?"

It is the first time outside of oriental countries that a person's shadow has cut much of a figure in social relations, and the present Paris fad is not so much for your shadow itself as for photographs of it. The almost endless forms in which the sitter's shadow may be projected and caught by the camera has caused Guitry to make such photographs of a given person the basis of a system of fortune telling that is more startling in its results than the best efforts of those who foresee the future by means of playing cards.

They're great, these pictures. When Dick and mine are finished I'll send you a "shadow."

A Sculpture Party.

New Year's night we gave a sculpture party that was lots of fun. We invited six couples in "the set," and on each invitation was written the request to "please bring a penknife."

When the clan gathered each person was given a small, square package containing something rather hard and heavy. On the outside of the package was written this attempt at rhyme:

A block of pure white marble from
Paros, in the Aegean sea.
To be used in sculping the bust of
Some living celebrity.

Each "artist" was assigned an object to be cut from the marble, the assignments being different in every instance. Living celebrities, noted men or women of the past, famous statues and animals were among the models.

We laughed until I thought the tenants in the apartment house would have us dispossessed when the wrappers of the packages were removed, revealing nothing more than hard white soap. The people then went in search of their penknives, and during the next half hour they cut from their "Parian marble" the subject assigned.

When the various statues were completed they were exhibited with the names of the artist attached, and each craftsman voted for some work of art not his own. The prize was a dainty little Tanagra figurine imitation for the best statue. Imported gingerbread figures were given as consolation gifts for those who failed. The party was voted an immense success.

The Feminine Humbug.

Don't you know her? I do and at the moment have in mind one of the species who virtuously says when bridge is mentioned: "No; I never play for money. William doesn't approve of it."

William, as a matter of fact, is a meek, long suffering dear without an opinion of his own with which to bless himself, and his wife uses his name as a means of getting her own way. She quotes his authority to avoid arguments or opposition and does what she likes with a charming show of deference.

This kind of humbug is kin to the mother who warns her children, "I shall have to tell father if you do it again," setting up the unfortunate pater as a sort of family ogre. No doubt in her youth she dismissed the impecunious suitor she had flirted with in similar submission to her parents' wishes and in her age will tell her granddaughters that as a girl she never dared to assert herself as they do.

Don't let's waste any more time thinking about such creatures. Let's talk about my new tailor made, a sketch of which I am inclosing. It is black and white striped cloth and perfectly stunning.

Speaking of clothes, distinctly this is the season of the "fuzzy wuzzy" garment, and there isn't any reason to justify it. Never have women so loudly and so vigorously and unceasingly cried that they were "new women," emancipated beings, with mental machinery fully equal to the brain equipment of the male creatures of their class. And never have women dressed in more wholly feminine garments.

The craze for furs is widespread. Great, billowy, shaggy muffs and scarfs, boas, stoles, etc., and whole fur coats made from skins of various animals abound.

Then there are the plush coats and velvet coats, all soft, clingy feminine things. And this is surely a marabou season. Milady carries a marabou muff and twists a marabou stole about her white throat and twines some strands of marabou about her hat and goes forth to vote perhaps.

The same soft, altogether feminine touch is carried in the great blanket-like coats for automobile and driving. Lingerie waists, softest blouses of silk and crepe have first favor. The shops are showing comparatively few of the mannish tailored linen blouses or shirts. Then there are the jabots and side frills of lace and embroidery and lawn to add still further to the charms of the dainty, wholly feminine woman and the fluffy ruffles girl. The only space left to add

THE CARE OF ALUMINIUM.

Cooking Utensils of This Metal Need Special Care.

As every one knows, aluminium has as a kitchen utensil many points in its favor. It is light and easy to handle, and, being solid metal, it cannot chip and scale off as agate and porcelain lined kettles do. The food in it heats quickly and remains hot a good length of time.

Manufacturers say that nothing in an aluminium utensil can burn on the bottom with serious injury to the metal, but that depends on how it is cleaned.

One cannot heat a burned aluminium kettle like an ordinary utensil in the same condition. It cannot be filled with hot suds prepared from ordinary soap powder and boiling water and then allowed to stand on the back of the stove, as alkali discolors and injures aluminium.

The suds should be prepared from soap containing very little alkali. Let the vessel soak until the food is loosened and then scour with brick dust, fine sand, emery powder or some good sand soap or polishing powder. Do not scrape the utensil with a knife or other sharp instrument.

Do not attempt to give these kettles an extra shine with salt and vinegar, which is no good as a polish for some of the other kitchen utensils. Instead, use any good scouring material that is not full of alkali. The outside surface, which is brighter and finer than the inner surface, may be rubbed with sand soap of good quality providing it is not gritty.

Ammonia and lye should be avoided in the cleansing of aluminium kettles.

Charcoal a Necessity.

If housewives knew the value of charcoal in the home they would never be without a supply. It should not only be kept in cupboards and wardrobes to collect the dampness, but also in the refrigerator, where it will keep a sanitary condition and absorb any food odors. Here it should be renewed weekly in order that its efficiency be preserved. The discarded charcoal need not be thrown away after used for this purpose, as it is still good for fuel use. Powdered charcoal mixed with salt is excellent for the cleaning of the teeth or verdigris from copper utensils.

The Latest Coiffure.

After looking at the prettily arranged coils of hair seen in the illustration you will probably say, "Oh, yes, it's very lovely, but it takes a lot of hair to make it." So it does, but let me whisper you can buy this triple coil coiffure if you can't arrange it with your own locks, and no one will be the wiser except yourself and your maid.

BALLOONING AS A SPORT.

Flourishing Despite the Vogue of the Flying Machine.

Within five or six years ballooning has found increasing favor in this country as a sport. There are many more in Europe, but in the United States there are now fifty or sixty owners of balloons who own from one to three balloons apiece. The number of owners is increasing despite the vastly increased popularity of the heavier than air flying machine.

Any man who can afford an automobile can afford a balloon. You can buy a one man balloon made of linen and silk, with basket, net and equipment of every sort complete, for $300. Such a balloon may weigh 120 pounds and deflated occupies a space of about 18 by 20 by 20 inches. It can be put in a trunk, though commonly it is packed for transportation in the basket. A three passenger balloon can be bought for $800. Balloons may be had of any dimension up to outfits intended to carry fifty persons, but the balloons commonly sold range from the one man carrier up to those designed for eight or ten. Prices depend on the sizes of the balloons and the materials of which they are made. A double walled balloon of rubberized cloth designed to carry eight or ten persons and with all its equipment complete costs about $5,000.

You can't walk into a balloon manufacturer's establishment and find new balloons of all sizes in stock. Balloons are made only to order. But there are now so many men engaged in the ballooning sport and so many balloons in use—there are now ten times as many private as there are professional balloonists—that you may find second hand balloons. A man starting ballooning is likely to buy a small one, and then as his interest and experience increase he buys a bigger one, and if he wants to he can turn in the old one as part payment for the new one. One can buy second hand balloons with all equipment complete at prices ranging from $275 up to $400 for two passenger outfits and up to $700 for an eight passenger balloon.—New York Sun.

FRENCH THRIFT.

The People, as a Rule, Save One-fifth of Their Incomes.

Since the days when the people of France went down into their stockings for the five milliards of ransom exacted by Bismarck, the world has pondered as over a mystery the beelike durability of French thrift. Not only has their war of progress been kept in full commission, along with a vast standing army and an enlarging naval force, but at the same time they have poured millions of treasure into the coffers of allies and friends.

Of French thrift apparently there is no end. It is founded on racial habits rooted in industry and intelligence and on a sense of proportion as universal to the Gallic race as its feeling for beauty. After forty years the republic stands firm in the strength of two generations of sons and daughters born under the banner of self government. That fact has excited as much wonder among her neighbors as the irrepressible thrift. Probably the one is a complement of the other, political as well as industrial. France being ruled by intelligence and moderation.

The formula of French thrift is as simple as sunlight: Be industrious, be frugal, give and enjoy in proportion to your means, and always lay by a fifth of your income for capital. Results: A whole nation prosperous, contented and happy.—Century Magazine.

A Watch in a Pearl.

Pearls on watches are common places, but a watch in a pearl is surely a novelty. One has just been made by a Paris watchmaker after fifteen months of work by his best mechanics. The pearl weighed forty-five grains and was a perfect flattened sphere. Its diameter was fourteen and a half millimeters or slightly more than half an inch. The watch is eleven and a half millimeters or forty-five one-hundredths of an inch in diameter and has a compensating balance of five-twelfths of an inch caliber. It may seem strange, but the maker says the most difficult part of the work was boring the hole in which the watch was to be inserted in the pearl. This watch mounted in a pearl cost $6,000.

When Passengers Were Scarce.

The original Intercolonial railway and Fort Augustus railway for lack of custom recalls an incident of the early days of the Callander and Oban line. At the outset local passenger traffic was, like Prince Charlie, "long in comin'," and once when an Oban bound train drew up at a wayside station the only person who landed was the guard. The station master and porter were the only people on the platform, and after an exchange of snuff mulls the guard inquired, "Any passengers for me the day?" The station master, evidently feeling his position keenly, replied, "Naw the day, but I hear tell o' a woman for next week."—Glasgow Herald.

New York City's Chinese.

The imperial Chinese board of education in Peking has established in New York a Chinese school. Most of its fifty pupils attend the public schools also and thus learn both languages. A Chinese high school is promised. About eighty Chinese students are attending high schools and universities, forty in Columbia.

There is one Chinese church, on East Thirty-first street. Twenty-one churches have Chinese branches. There are 850 professed Chinese Christians. Confucianism is taught in Mott street by Dr. Huang Caon Chen.—Chinese Annual.

Cookery Points

Oysters Cooked in Paper Bag.

The following recipe for cooking oysters is declared by an English magazine to be excellent:

Drain twelve large oysters on a cloth and cut them carefully. Roll them in fresh breadcrumbs and place in a thickly buttered paper cooking bag, fasten the bag and cook on a grid for eight minutes in a hot oven.

Creamed oysters can be done in twelve minutes and make both a dainty and easily prepared supper dish.

When cooking pastry in paper bags there is no necessity to oil or grease the bag. Whether this is done or not is merely a matter of choice. One thing, however, is essential—the bag should have several vents cut in the upper side so that the pastry may become brown and crisp. A bag should be chosen into which whatever pastry is being cooked can easily slip without touching the edges of the bag during cooking, and the paste should be brushed over with milk before being slipped into the bag.

To do this a pastry brush should be used.

All forms of sweets, from stewed prunes to souffles, can be cooked in paper bags with equal success, and milk rolls can be prepared in fifteen minutes.

Cottage Cheese.

Cottage cheese is so easily made at home when there is sufficient milk that it is a pity more housekeepers do not make it an item on the bill of fare. It requires merely standing on the back of the stove the panful of sour milk until the watery fluid or whey rises to the top; then cover a sieve with a clean cloth, pour the whey and curds upon it, knot the ends of the cloth to form a bag and hang where the whey can drip out for two hours or more. When the dripping ceases turn the curds into a bowl, add a little salt, a tablespoonful of butter and a little sweet cream if convenient, stirring the whole together with a fork. Make into little balls and keep wrapped in clean cheesecloth in a cool place. Onions, chives or sage may be added to the cheese at serving time. A spoonful of sweet cream is a great improvement.

For scalloped cheese cut slices of bread, trimming off the crust; butter and put a layer in the casserole or earthenware baking dish, sprinkle with grated dairy cheese and a little salt and pepper. Repeat until the dish is full, finishing with a layer of grated cheese. Beat four eggs with three cupfuls of milk and pour over, then bake brown in a hot oven and serve hot.

Apple Pudding.

Cover the bottom of a buttered pudding dish with a layer of fine breadcrumbs dotted with bits of butter. Spread with a layer of thinly sliced apple seasoned with a sprinkling of lemon juice and a grating of nutmeg. Put in alternate layers of apple and crumbs, making the top layer crumbs. Cover and set in the oven until the apple is nearly done, then uncover and brown. Serve with whipped cream that is flavored and sweetened.

Tomato Bouillon.

Take a clear meat bouillon, beef preferred, and when it is done strain into it a clear essence of tomato. This is obtained by boiling tomatoes until they are tender without being mushy and straining the juice through a colander. Govern the amount of tomato juice added to the bouillon by the desired strength of the broth. Season to taste and serve very hot. A dash of cayenne pepper adds to the tones of the bouillon as an appetizer.

Fish Cakes.

Pick the cooked fish apart, being careful to free it entirely of bones. Reject the skin. Add to the shredded flesh half its amount of dried breadcrumbs and season to taste. Moisten with enough milk to allow the mixture to be molded into cakes and stir in an egg. Form into cakes about two inches in diameter and half an inch thick. Fry in hot lard as you would meat. Minced parsley makes an excellent garnishing.

Potatoes au Gratin.

The usual way of preparing these much liked potatoes is by no means the best. Instead of sprinkling the cheese over the top when the potatoes are ready to be baked, grate it and blend it into the white sauce before pouring the sauce over the potatoes. The cheese flavor thus added permeates the entire pan and makes the sauce deliciously creamy. Dust the top with cracker dust or breadcrumbs and brown in the oven.

French Pancakes.

Use a pancake recipe calling for very little flour, made principally of eggs and milk. Have the batter thin and bake in rather large circles. Spread each cake with a slightly tart fruit jelly, dust with powdered sugar, roll tightly as for jelly roll and fasten with a skewer made of a toothpick. Serve very hot with the tea.

Fig Sandwiches.

Chop one-quarter of a pound of figs very fine, add one quarter cupful of water and cook to a smooth paste; add also one-third cupful of almonds blanched, chopped very fine and pounded to a paste with a little rosewater, and the juice of half a lemon. When cold spread the mixture upon thinly buttered slices of white or rye bread.

Rev. W. A Levitt, who had been in charge of a series of evangelistic services at the Central Baptist church, returned to Lethbridge on Sunday night.

The Ladies Aid of the Central Baptist church will hold a sale of work on Wednesday, March 20th Further particulars will be announced later.

Prof. J. R. Crawford, has opened a piano and organ warerooms in the Sergeant block, next the Budd building. See his announcement elsewhere in this issue.

A large crowd attended the Pioneer picture show at the opera house Saturday night, and many of the young women now have an idea how to make "furlovers."

At the First Presbyterian church on Sunday night a unanimous vote was recorded in favor of church union. A similar result is reported from all over the west.

It has been rumored that real estate men have to walk around and look wise; but the time is coming in the near future, when they will have to wear the silk hats and frock coats

The shows put on in the opera house on Wednesday and Thursday night by W. Card were very interesting and attracted a fair house each night. These shows will be put on semi-weekly beginning with next week.

A whist drive and dance will be given in the Blairmore opera house on Friday night, under the auspices of the Blairmore Whist Club. A large number of invitations have been sent out and the affair promises to be a merry one.

Miss Lea Gales and Mrs. A E. Hamel left on Monday morning for Victoria, where the latter will join her husband. Mr. Hamel was until recently connected with the Alberta Trading Co., and has since secured a lucrative position in the land of the setting sun.

A successful whist drive was held in the Blairmore hotel on Thursday night last under the auspices of the ladies of the Catholic church About twenty-four tables were kept astir, and prizes were awarded as follows: For men, Ben. McDougall 1st prize; Mr Delaney, of Frank, booby. Miss Albert, 1st prize; Mrs. Duil, booby.

Messrs. H. Pinkney and W M. Armstrong, who have been attending the Okanagan college, returned to Blairmore Wednesday. Mr. Armstrong, after spending a few days with friends in Blairmore, will proceed to South Pincher to re-enter upon his duties as pastor of the Baptist church there. Mr. Pinkney has had a very successful term at college, and among other subjects he won the maximum in French.

Timely Improvements

The recent improvements effected in and around the town of Blairmore are indeed reflecting of great credit upon the new city fathers. During the past week the main street and avenues have been supplied with new and improved lights, which have been installed by the Rocky Mountain Cement Co. The new lights have brought from darkness and made passable many alleyways and places which hitherto were dangerous to tread fearing molestation by dogs or other creatures which might be prowling around that way. The lights are of the most modern type and their introduction is hailed with satisfaction by all residents of the town.

The council has also put themselves on record, this last week, as a progressive and useful body of men, interested in the welfare of Blairmore. The sidewalk in the central part of Victoria street has long been not only disgraceful, but exceedingly dangerous. This unhappy condition is now forever a thing of the past. A new, solid, nine-foot walk now adorns this place and gives beauty to the business places, as well as safety to the public.

If the council would go one step further—have the old unsightly poolroom removed from Victoria street, and several other unsightly buildings removed from Dearborn street, as well as the excavations filled—we would consider them the most up-to-date and progressive of councillors.

We are of the opinion that the best advertisement any town can have is light, sidewalks and cleanliness—and the greatest of these is cleanliness.

These improvements are enhancing to property value and to business generally in that locality, and go to prove that our present council is made of men who mean business and who intend to preserve our town to be fully worthy of its title, "The Eldorado of the Golden West."

What People are Saying

That business has shown increased activity this last few days.

That two banks are a good ad. to the town, and exceedingly convenient in times of financial stringency.

That the special Accident Insurance agent was a hustler. Surely this was not a frame-up with the medical men.

That the tidings of new industries coming into The Pass are interesting peoples from ocean to ocean.

That the advent of an electric railway system will tend to promote the best interest of every citizen of every town in The Pass.

The above leaves Coleman out of the league after playing one game with each team

Hockeyology

The married men of Blairmore were called upon last Wed. afternoon to go out and do battle against Frank with hockey sticks, they were not only called on to do battle but to win, as two other teams had tried the same day to uphold the good name of our town and failed.

The league team and also the lady's team of this town travelled to Pincher Creek, the ladies bringing back the best results, after playing a good game and holding the score down to one nothing up to three minutes before time was called, when Pincher scored making the game at the close one all.

The league team did not do so well the ice being very soft, in fact it was no ice at all but more the form of a snow drift, not only this did our boys have to put up with, they had also to contend with very unfair umpiring. At one time when there was a chance to score, Dr. Bake having the puck right up to the Pincher's net, when their goal tender got excited and fell and grabbed the puck in his hands and threw it to the fence. This the umpire let go, and the doctor got it back again before the goal tender regained his feet, when the puck was grabbed again and thrown over the fence, spoiling all chances to make a goal score. The second offense, for ire being a Pincher man, gave the tender two minutes off.

Par
Tucker, another of Pinchers bunch,
Ge
dirt, on the ice, deliberately hit
Ward, our goal tender, on the head; causing a big gash. This was probably the dirtiest play of the day, the score finally ended 3-0 in favor of Pincher.

Pincher showed the visiting team no courtesy whatever. Dr. Gillespie one of theis players was dirty enough to hit one of our rooters twice when His back was turned, without any excuse only that he had been called a prairie chicken by some one while the game was in play and he took this sneaking way to get back.

It is quite plain to the boys of Blairmore why Pincher has not got a railroad also why the C.P.N. R. are fighting shy of the place. It is better for the country at large to keep such people corralled.

There is a movement on foot now to get Pincher to give us a return game, and if successful we think we can guarantee the out side team a good fast clean game. They will also find they will be treated as gentlemen not only by our team but by the citizens, and we ask those who saw the game last Wednesday to overlook the treatment we received and do as Blairmore has always done, treat the visitors white, regardless who they are. We might say that Pincher has one good clean man who can play hockey and play it clean, and like a gentlemen, that is Waugh.

It was when the above reports of no victories came from Pincher that the married men decided that it was up to them when they played Frank the same night, and they did it, not very bad though as the game was very close, ending 3-1 in favor of Blairmore.

Brisco, Lyons, McDonald and Polkakowsky did good work for Blairmore, while Dawson, Wetmore, and Hinds put up a good defence.

Frank's main support was McGowan, Nailor, Murphy, Windsor and Hollimotz.—Com.

Lake City

Is the name of the Western Terminal Point of the proposed Crow's Nest Pass Electric Railway and is already tapped by the Pass line of the C. P. R., while the G. N. R. has already approached to within a few score of miles and must eventually pass through this admirably located town.

Lake City

Is located by the shore of Crow's Nest Lake, only a few miles east of the provincial boundary between Alberta and British Columbia, and just north of the international line. In reality, it is at the top of Canada where the majestic Rockies tower in serene magnificance over great chasms and numerous fiords, reflecting their presence on the waters of this beautiful lake. Here also are afforded the very best tasks for the daring mountain climber and for huntsman who desires to outrival the quiet ways of the Rocky Mountain goat, sheep, deer or elk, which are the monarchy thereon. In close proximity are numerous timber, mineral and fuel resources, development of which is now in its initial stages. These resources include gold quartz, coal, iron and pulp wood.

Crow's Nest Lake has long been looked upon with promise as an admirable location for health and tourist resorts, and but now this promise is being realized. Plans for hotels, etc. are being arranged, as well at boat houses, and the most modern pleasure yawls will soon glide over the surface of this beautiful lake.

But a few weeks ago lots were placed on the market, and the agents have had their hands full attending to purchasers. Prices run from $150 up. For further particulars apply to the agents:

About Introducing People.

So unfamiliar are many Americans with the English rule that the "roof is an introduction" that when one woman speaks to another at some social function there will be no reply, because "she has not been introduced." Every woman should remember that, no matter who she is or where she is from, no such casual conversation can hurt her, and she should not lay herself open to the very natural criticism that she doesn't know enough to speak when she is spoken to. A meeting of this kind does not necessitate a further acquaintance, as it may cease when they leave the house of the hostess.

Some people like to follow this foreign custom of not introducing their guests to one another, feeling that the mere fact of their all being friends and guests of the host and hostess is a sufficient introduction. There is a difference of opinion, however, on this subject, and most persons think that a hostess should put her guests at their ease and introduce them when occasion requires it.

There is a difference between a formal and a casual introduction. The formal introduction is made with a deliberate purpose. The casual introduction is made to save awkwardness and need not entail further acquaintance. When a formal introduction is made the hostess should always first ask the privilege of making the introduction. This can be done in a very unobtrusive way, so that the one who wishes to be introduced knows nothing of the request.

In making an introduction the man is presented to the woman in this way, "Miss Johnston, may I present Mr Sears?" or "Miss Johnston, allow me to present Mr. Sears," or still another expression is, "Mrs. Thompson, Mr Browning desires the honor of knowing you."

In introducing two women always present the younger to the older.

It is correct for a man to ask a mutual friend to present him to a woman or young girl, and, as a rule, the request is granted unless there is some very good reason why the woman or girl does not wish to meet this special man

Men rarely ask to be introduced to each other, but if a woman wishes to present two men to one another they should never refuse the introduction.

For a very formal introduction a bow, a pleasant smile and the words "How do you do, Mr. So-and-so," or "How do you do, Miss (or Mrs.) So-and-so," is sufficient, or one may merely repeat the name of the person presented in an undertone.

If one is desirous of being less formal it is correct to shake hands even at a first introduction. It is also correct to say, "I am so glad to meet you, Mr So-and-so," or "it is a great pleasure for me to meet you, Miss So-and-so," but the expression, "Pleased to meet you," is not at all correct.

Men always shake hands when they are introduced to each other.

Why Clarence Hesitated.

"What is your name, little boy?" asked the teacher.

"I'll have to write it for you, ma'am," said the new boy hesitatingly.

"I think not. My hearing is quite good. Your name, please."

"I'd rather not tell you."

"Are you ashamed of your name?"

"No ma'am, but"—

"Then we will not waste any more time if you please. I am waiting."

The boy began desperately:

"Kuk-kuk-kuk-kuk Clarence! That's my first name. The other is Pup-pup-pup-pup Perkins! I never stutter 'cept when I'm speaking my name, and when I'm nagged like this I'm a whole lot worse, ma'am."—Housekeeper.

What They Asked Him.

"How do you pronounce 'Clayhanger'?"

"Do you really think Dickens is a dead one?"

"How long does it take you to write a novel?"

"What are the Five Towns?"

"Won't you let me send you a copy of my book?"

"I'm going to ask you a favor: Won't you autograph just one of your books for me?"

"Which of your novels do you like best?"

"However did you come to know so much about women?"—New York Mail.

THE ROYAL TREASURE HOUSE

Vaults Beneath Buckingham Palace Are Littered with Valuables

Beneath Buckingham Palace are two treasure vaults where are stored the treasures of the King and Queen for which no room can be found in the apartments of any of the royal residences, some of which already are almost inconveniently overcrowded with valuable ornaments in the way of antique works of art, statuary, china and gold and silver ornaments of various kinds.

The royal treasure vaults are fire and damp proof, and are now lighted with electric light. Each is entered by a double door; each door consists of a slab of solid steel three inches thick, the doors are set on steel rails and open in the centre, when unlocked they can be glided easily and noiselessly to the right or left.

The keys of the vaults are held by the King's private secretary. In one of the vaults are stored large pieces of old furniture, some of which is of immense value, such, for example, as a huge old Sheraton sideboard with the royal arms inlaid in the centre which is one of the most perfect examples of inlay work extant. This sideboard, if sold in the market would certainly not fetch less than ten thousand guineas.

There are many large statues, a number of enormous pictures, and a great deal of big bronze work in the vaults, but none of these are of especially high value. They are largely the works of modern artists, many of them Germans of but mediocre reputation from whom the late King consented to receive samples of their work, and they would be out of place among the fine works of art to be seen in the various apartments about the royal residence, even if there was room for them.

The smaller of the two treasure vaults which has a floor space of about twenty feet square is several times smaller than the larger one, but its contents are infinitely more valuable. Here are stored thousands of pounds' worth of old gold and silver ornaments of all sorts. There are hundreds of chains, watches, grotesque figures, models of animals and birds of many kinds and models of ships. This wealth of gold and silver is arranged on shelves covered with purple velvet with which the vault is lined. Many of these tables are the presents of the late King and Queen or to their present Majesties from various foreign royalties or from Indian princes, and from time to time some of them are placed in the royal apartments to take the place of similar ornaments which are then removed to the treasure vaults.

The treasures are all most carefully catalogued, and the catalogue is from time to time checked over by an official in the secretarial department. In the smaller vault is also stored the collection of tapestries which the Queen specially values and which Her Majesty has been collecting together. There are over two hundred of these tapestries, some of which are worth thousands of pounds. One of the pieces was purchased by Queen Mary in a Paris saleroom when Her Majesty and King George, as Prince and Princess of Wales, were visiting Paris some years ago. Her Majesty secured the piece for a hundred guineas, at which price it was a rare bargain, for it subsequently turned out to be a genuine sample of fifteenth century work and was worth certainly a thousand guineas.

In the room of Buckingham Palace known as the Bow Room there was a secret passage leading to the treasure vaults, but this passage was closed up in the reign of Queen Victoria.

The Sweet Face

The expressive face is not one which writhes or agonizes with every sorrowful feeling, or twists and squirms with every amusing situation; it is rather, the one which retains a calm exterior while the strongest emotions of the soul play upon it with their lights and shadows.

The face should be the smooth curtain on which the heart exhibits its various pictures without disturbing it, not the stage which requires the shifting of scenery for every act. The reason why so many beautiful faces are to be found in a convent is in a great measure due to the daily task of composing the features in long hours of meditation and prayer. Unarred by contending emotions, the features are gradually moulded into harmonious outlines. To sum up advice on the point—train your features to composure, and avoid all grimacing habits.

Because good-humor is an obliging quality, many women think they must always laughing or broadly smiling in order to be charming. This is a grievous mistake.

The Long Forest of Africa

One of the great national treasures of Africa, to the need of preserving which attention is being directed, is the immense extratropical forest that extends almost unbroken from the extreme southern end along the eastern lands to the equator. There are gaps in it, and the trees change in kind somewhat with change of latitude, but on the whole, it has the same character throughout. The altitude above the sea changes regularly with decrease of latitude. Near the Cape the forest grows at sea-level; in Natal and the Transvaal its latitude increases to 3,000, 4,000, and 5,000 feet; and on approaching the equator it rises to 7,000 and finally to 10,000 feet. In the equatorial highlands the growth is very vigorous and the forest is enriched with the "pencil cedar" of Abyssinia.

A Hint to the Bride

There is a time-honored idea that the wearing of something blue brings luck to the bride, and it is an unwritten law that this "something" shall be of rather an intimate nature.

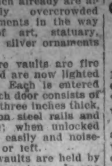

A popular fancy is to carry out the superstition by donning a blue garter, but a newer fad is to have the stockings embroidered in blue.

This is the only touch of color permitted in the costuming of a white clad bride.

The biggest farms in the world are in South Australia, where the average squatter holds 78,000 acres.

BAD CASE OF GRIP

Caused Sore Throat and Tonsilitis. Restored by Peruna.

Mr. W. H. Housley.

Mr. W. H. Housley, Greenville, Tennessee, writes:

"Five years ago I took a very severe cold which resulted in la grippe. I never was so bad off. I was in bed several weeks, and when I did get up I had tonsilitis and sore throat.

"I tried to cure this for eighteen months, but it gradually got worse. A doctor advised me to have my tonsils cut out, but I did not like the idea. Another doctor examined me, and told me the same thing. I finally got a bottle of Peruna, and after I had taken one bottle my throat was better. I bought and used a dozen bottles, and saw I was going to get well, and I did."

FATTED SHEEP

Tails of the Syrian Breed Weigh Ten to Fifteen Pounds

It has been suggested that in the sheep-fattening process, which is common in the vicinity of Damascus, one might be able to trace the original meaning of the Biblical phrase, "the fatted calf." Mrs. McIntosh thus describes the process in her book, "Damascus":

"The sheep differ from ours. When we show pictures of the latter to the natives they ask what animals they are. They miss the enormous tails of the Syrian sheep, in which the fat of the body seems to concentrate, and which, after skinning and preparing, often weigh ten to fifteen pounds.

"Early in the summer the head of each family buys or sets apart one, two or three sheep, according to his rank in life of his wealth. The women and children devote themselves with great zeal to fattening these sheep. The children fill large baskets with mulberry leaves and carry them to their mothers. These several times a day and also in the night take little wooden stools and sit up by the sheep. With one hand they keep the sheep's mouth open, with the other they cram in the leaves, forcing them down the throat.

"Twice a day the sheep are led to the village fountain to drink, and their coats are frequently washed. About the end of September the work of the women and children comes to an end. The sheep have grown so fat they cannot stand up. They are then killed. Their flesh is boiled, with spices, and put into pots for winter use. The mincemeat is eaten as a relish at festivities."

Things Worth Knowing

To learn to think and act for yourself.

To respect grey hairs, especially your own.

To waste nothing, neither money, time nor talent.

If you have a place of business, to be found there when wanted.

To spare when you are young that you may prosper when you are old.

To bear little trials patiently, that you may learn how to bear great ones.

To be self-reliant and not take too much advice, but rather depend on yourself.

To keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire called conscience.

To learn to say no: it will be of more service to you than to be able to read Latin.

To do all the good you can in the world, and make as little noise about it as possible.

To stick to your own opinion, if you have one, allowing others, of course, the same liberty to stick to theirs.

Bridal Customs

Different countries have curious fashions regarding brides.

In provincial England the cook pours hot water over the threshold after the bridal couple have gone in order to keep it warm for another bride.

There is an old and deeply-rooted superstition in Germany against May marriages.

A favorite day in Scotland is December 31, so that the young couple can leave their old life with the old year and begin their married life with the new one.

The Italians permit no wedding gifts that are sharp or pointed. From this practice emanates our superstition that the gift of a knife severs friendship.

Too Much for Him

"Allow me," said the fresh young man in the Pullman dining car, as he passed the sugar bowl to a shy young girl: "sweets to the sweet you know."

"Allow me," said the girl, as she handed him a plate of crackers, "crackers to the cracked, you know."

No Doubt

"It is said King George smokes cigars costing $2 apiece."

"I suppose even the ones he gets at Christmas were pretty fair."

A Hint for Hubby

They lived in one of those new garden suburbs, where everyone loves his neighbor, and the green grass grows greener, and the houses are white and red. The great scandal of the moment in that particular suburb was the story that a newly married lady had ruthlessly hurled a plate at her hubby, because he had ventured in error to sit upon her new hat. Mrs. Nextdoor was as flabbergasted at the tale as anyone, and drew her own husband's attention to the matter.

He placed his face nearer to that of his wife—they had not been married very long, either—as she remarked tenderly:

"I could never throw anything at you, could I, pet, however crossly it had made me."

"No, ducky, I am sure you couldn't. You wouldn't if you could, and I am certain you'll never try."

"Of course I couldn't, Jack," replied his better half. "You see, I haven't got a new hat for you to sit on."

A Hard-Luck Story

An actor who was stranded in Seattle and wanted to get to San Francisco finally managed to secure a second-class steerage ticket. The voyage lasted almost three days. The first day the actor slept nearly all day in order to keep from getting hungry, as he didn't have any food. The second day he couldn't sleep any more and had a hard time of it. On the third day he couldn't stand the pangs of hunger any longer, so he went down to the dining-room and ordered the best meal he could get. All the while he was eating it, he saw visions of the San Francisco jail, with a thousand occupying a cell. However, he thought he might as well be game, so, calling the waiter, he asked jauntily: "How much do I owe you, my friend?" And the waiter replied: "Not a cent, sir. Your meals are included in your ticket."

Whence the "Grass Widow"

To give positively the origin of the expression "grass widow" appears to be impossible. The authorities do not agree on this point. One contends that a woman who said to her friends that her husband "had gone to grass" following a separation is entitled to the credit of coining the expression.

Our writers have attempted to find an explanation of it in the French word "gras" to signify a widow by courtesy. In the Scandanavian languages the prefix "grass" being in common use, others have conjectured that it comes from the word "grading" meaning greedy; this signifying a woman who longs for the husband who is gone.

These give a wide enough choice.

Sham Battle Shams

The military manoeuvres were in a muddle. The "Purples" were supposed to be invading the territory of the "Greens," but why there or what they were they didn't exactly know.

A large detachments of the "Purples" began to cross the river by a wooden bridge to attack a small detachment of "Greens."

"Hi!" roared the "Greens." "Hi! You mustn't cross here! Can't you see the notice? This bridge is supposed to be destroyed."

"H'm! Is it," responded the captain of the "Purples," grimly. "Well, then, we're supposed to be swimming across."

KINGS TALKED OF A DUEL

But George II. and Frederick of Prussia Didn't Fight

The personal enmity which existed between George II. and Frederick King of Prussia, reached at one time to such a height that, as Baron Bielfield was informed on good authority, the monarchs conceived the very singular design of engaging it in a duel.

King George made a choice of Brigadier Sutton for his second, and the King of Prussia of Colonel Derschau. The territory of Hildersheim was picked on for the meeting. His Britannic Majesty was then at Hanover, and His Prussian Majesty had come as far as Salzdahl, near Brunswick. Baron Borck, the Prussian Minister at London, and later dismissed from the court in a very abrupt manner, having repaired to the King, his master, at Salzdahl, found him in such a violent passion that he did not think it advisable directly to oppose his design, but to gain time feigned to approve of the extraordinary combat which His Majesty meditated, and he even offered to carry the challenge.

The challenge was not sent. Ministers on both sides gained time, the choler of both parties evaporated, and the following year the quarrel was made up.

Reasonable Request

It was a cold night. The traveller inquired at the only hotel in the little town if he could be lodged for the night, but was informed that it was full up.

"But you must give me some sort of accommodation," said the stranger. "Surely you don't want me to sleep under the starry, but chilly skies?"

"Well," said the proprietor, the best we can do is to make you up a bed in the passage and curtain it off for you." And so it was arranged.

In the dark watches of the night the traveller awoke to a freezing draught chilled him and the sheet which had been hung up as a partition was blowing merrily in the breeze. The traveller rose and shouted for the landlord.

"What is it?" queried a voice from the stairhead.

"Please," said the stranger timidly, "may I have a sheet of pins to lock my bedroom door with?"

By the use of a specially constructed apparatus, in which helium was evaporated in a vessel surrounded by liquid helium, Professor Kamerlingh Onnes has succeeded in evaporating helium at a pressure of about two-tenths of a millimeter. The temperature thus attained corresponds to about 1.8 degrees absolute, the lowest temperature on record, says the Scientific American.

A Baltimore man, whose son is a resident at Princeton, had found frequent occasion to remonstrate with his boy touching his extravagance, but the father invariably "comes to the front" when request is made for further funds.

On his last letter to his son, the father, after the usual recital, stated that he was forwarding a cheque for $50, and he wound up with:—

"My son, your studies are costing me a great deal!"

To which the hopeful in the next letter replied:—

"I know it father; and I don't study very hard, either."

This Concrete Root Cellar Costs Less Than Wood and is Much More Durable

Cement is particularly adapted to the construction of Root Cellar floors and walls.

Experience proves that for the farmer, Concrete is superior to wood in every point of comparison.

Concrete permits of a desirable degree of coolness without freezing. There is no question as to its durability. Concrete lasts, not for years, but for ages; and needs no repair.

Anyone who has scooped vegetables from the old plank floor will appreciate the fact that Concrete offers a smooth, continuous surface with no projecting plank ends or nails to damage the scoop or ruffle the temper of the scooper.

The various uses to which Concrete may be profitably put, on the farm, are plainly and simply in our 160-page book, which shows how the following farm buildings and utilities can be constructed of concrete:—

"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete"

Barns, Cisterns, Dairies, Dipping Tanks, Foundations, Fence Posts, Feeding Floors, Gutters, Hens' Nests, Hitching Posts, Horse Blocks, Houses, Fruit-Shelter Walls, Stables, Stairs, Stalls, Steps, Tanks, Troughs, Walks, and so forth.

FOR BURNS—ZAM-BUK

Stops Pain at Once

This is the verdict of all who have tried Zam-Buk. The woman in the home knows best its value. A burn from the stove, from a flat-iron, or a hot pan, is instantly soothed by Zam-Buk. When the little ones fall and cut or scratch themselves, Zam-Buk stops the pain and, incidentally, their crying. The best proof of this is the fact that children who have once had Zam-Buk applied come for it again.

For many serious burns, too, it is unequalled. Mr. John Johnston, of 734 South Marks Street, Fort William, a moulder in Copp's Foundry, says: "Some time ago I burned the top of my foot severely by dropping some molten iron from a ladle I was carrying. A large hole was burned through my shoe and into the top of my foot. I was taken home and Zam-Buk was applied to the burn directly. It was surprising what relief this balm afforded. The burn was so deep and so serious that it required careful attention, but Zam-Buk prevented other complications arising, and as it was daily applied, soothed the pains and allayed the inflammation. In the course of two weeks the hole burned in my foot had been quite healed."

Mr. W. B. Gibson, of Belleville, writes: "We have tried Zam-Buk often on cuts and sores, and I think there is nothing that can equal it."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bites, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

"There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. WILL ASSIST FARMERS

C. P. R. Distributing Milch Cows Among Settlers in Alberta.

One more instance of the continual efforts made by the Canadian Pacific Railway to assist the farmers of Western Canada has come to light. The C. P. R. has recently purchased a shipment of 46 carefully selected milch cows from the vicinity of Owen Sound, Ontario, for the shipment to the Canadian Pacific Demonstration farm at Strathmore, Alta., next spring. These cows will be distributed among the English settlers in the ready-made farms colonies for use until 1913. The plan was adopted on a smaller scale some years ago owing to the difficulty of securing good milch cows in Alberta, and with the idea of assisting the ready-made farmer to improve his stock. Next spring the shipment will be distributed in bunches of five or six to be held by the settlers for one year without payment of interest or money; at the end of that time they may be returned to the company or purchased at the cost price to the Canadian Pacific Railway. They will be wintered and tested at the Canadian Pacific Railway Demonstration Farm at Strathmore.

C. P. R. officials believe that by inaugurating schemes of this sort, the Western farmers are materially helped.

The Idea of Paper

Long years ago a little, thin Japanese gentleman was walking through his pretty garden. He had many parcels to send out from his shop every week, and he had always wrapped them in silk. But this was an expensive material. He wanted something cheaper. A wasp came flitting towards him, and he thrust it away, and there at his hand was a wasp's nest.

It was shapely, strong and made of thin wood-pulp softened into a watery paste by the jaws of the insect, then formed and left to dry.

"Why can't I do the same thing?" asked the little Japanese gentleman of himself. "Get certain wood, form it into a pulp by means of water from the river near by, and make something like this wasp's nest in consistency to drape about my packages."

He did. And to this idea we owe wood-pulp paper.

HUGE HIGH LEVEL BRIDGE

Immense Structure Will Unite the Cities of Edmonton and Strathcona

Next to the rebuilding of the Lachine Bridge at Montreal, the largest bridge construction work being done by the C. P. Ry. at present is the erection of a large high level bridge at Edmonton, Alta. Since August, 1910, the railway has been at work on the big construction which will before many months span the Saskatchewan river from side to side and unite the cities of Edmonton and Strathcona in a Greater Edmonton. The new bridge will be 2,800 feet long and 200 feet above water level, and will cost over $1,500,000. There will be two decks, the upper for the carrying of the Canadian Pacific tracks and street railway tracks, and the lower deck for passenger and vehicular traffic. John B. Gunn & Sons, of Winnipeg, were awarded the contract for the substructure and commenced the work of excavating the piers and abutments in August, 1910. When the river was frozen over, cofferdams were built, and the two main piers in mid stream were raised above water level before the ice was broken up in the spring. Night and day shifts were employed in order to accomplish this end. Foundations for all the piers were excavated this year and this year the concrete work was commenced.

In excavating for the largest pier on the south side of the bridge thousands of cubic feet of earth were removed. It was necessary to cut through a seam of coal seven feet in thickness. This coal was found to be of fairly good quality and as excavated was used for fuel for the engines operating the derricks. The thousands of cubic yards of gravel used were dredged from the river bed and washed by a plant located at the scene of operation. The substructure of the bridge was completed in August last year.

When completed the bridge will be supported by thirty-two piers and pedestals. There are four large central piers 138 feet high. The central piers are twenty feet square at the base. The C.P.R. will occupy the centre of the bridge and on either side will run the street railway. Forty feet below the level of the tracks will be the traffic deck of the bridge with a roadway 22 feet wide and four eight foot side walk on each side. As a result of the building of the new bridge the Edmonton street railway will save 16½ miles per day in the run between Edmonton and Strathcona as the distance saved between the two points by the erection of the new bridge is one and one-eighth miles.

By a coincidence the point chosen by the Canadian Pacific Railway for its new bridge which will give their trains entrance to Edmonton by the south is exactly at the point where lay the oldest and easiest ford across the Saskatchewan River in the olden days. In a few months' time giant locomotives, street cars and automobiles will glide over the Saskatchewan Valley high in the air on this most modern substitute for the old ford across which a few decades ago, Indians urged their ponies and settlers toiled in ox-drawn carts.

"Dad"

"Dad" and "daddy" were well known in this country in the sixteenth century. "Papa" did not come in, borrowed from abroad, until the seventeenth century was well advanced. Florio, at the end of the former century defined the Italian "pappa" as "the first word that children are taught to call their father, as ours say 'dad' or 'daddie.'" "Dad" seems to be the commoner to mankind of the two. Nhaucan in the "Odyssey" calls her father "pappa phile," dear papa, but Greek had "tata" also, and Welsh has "tat" and Irish "tald."

The change of dietary that comes with spring and summer has the effect in weak stomachs of setting up inflammation, resulting in dysentery and cholera morbus. The abnormal condition will continue if not attended to and will cause an exhaustive drain on the system. The best available medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It clears the stomach and bowels of irritants, counteracts the inflammation and restores the organs to healthy action.

For Diseases of the Skin

THERE IS NO TREATMENT SO CERTAIN TO RELIEVE THE ITCHING AND HEAL THE SORES AS

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The one common feature of nearly all skin diseases is itching, annoying and oftentimes almost unendurable itching.

The strong point about Dr. Chase's Ointment is that by reason of its remarkable soothing qualities it relieves itching from the moment it is applied.

But Dr. Chase's Ointment does more than this. It is composed of the greatest healing ingredients known to science, and its healing powers are often described as magical.

Allaying the inflammation, relieving the itching and gradually and naturally healing the raw, flaming flesh, Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment for eczema and salt rheum that was ever discovered.

There are many kinds of eczema, and nearly all itching skin diseases come under this head, in children it is known as teething eczema, and many a fond mother will tell you with heart felt gratitude of how her little one was rescued from torturing, itching eczema by the use of this great ointment.

Whenever there is itching skin or a sore that refuses to heal Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively prove effective as a relief and a cure.

Dr. Chase's Ointment has an unparalleled record of cures; 60c. a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Fish Culture in Canada

Hatching fish by artificial means to stock the waters of Canada is engaged in on a large scale by the Dominion Government. In 1909 the Dominion fish hatcheries planted no less than 1,024,282,000 fry in various waters throughout the country. In 1906 only 271,936,000 fry were planted by the Government fish hatcheries, so that the plant of young fish has increased by nearly 277 per cent. In the past ten years and the number of hatcheries has increased from 12 to 37 or 208 per cent. Of the 37 hatcheries now in operation, British Columbia and Quebec have 8 each, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario, 5 each; Manitoba and Prince Edward Island each have 2.

The amount voted by the Dominion Parliament for fish culture purposes in 1909 was $322,300, and of this $180,246, or approximately 56 per cent. was expended. The importance of carrying on this work cannot be emphasized too much in a growing country like Canada, where the increasing population is making greater and greater demands on the fish supply.

Mule Was Uninjured

Senator John Sharp Williams, whose supply of darky stories seems inexhaustible, tells this new one:

"I was proceeding leisurely along a Georgian road on foot one day, when I met a conveyance drawn by a mule and containing a number of negro field-hands. The driver, a darky of about twenty, was endeavoring to increase its speed, when suddenly the animal let fly with his hind heels and dealt him such a kick that he was stretched on the ground in a twinkling. He lay rubbing his woolly pate, where the mule had kicked him.

"'Is he hurt?' I asked anxiously of an old negro, who had jumped from the conveyance and was standing over the prostrate driver.

"'No boss,' was the older man's reply, 'dat mule will walk kind o' tendah fo' a day or two, but he ain't hurt.'"

Thoroughly Chilled

Chicago Post: The story about Esh Jackson seeking the north took root and another one blossomed.

The darky in question had simmered in the hoodoo pot of St. Augustine all his life, and was decoyed by the report that colored men could make as much as $4 a day in Duluth.

He landed north in a seersucker suit and into a hard winter. At Chicago, while waiting for a train, he shivered in an engine cab, and on the way to Duluth sped by miles of snow fields.

They picked him up and took him to a crematory for unknown dead. After he had been in the oven for a while somebody opened the door for inspection. Hastus came to and shouted:

"Shut dat do' and close dat draft."

Additional Blairmore

Harry Hearnden, second advance agent for the Jeanne Russell Company, was in town on Sunday and Monday arranging for that company's appearance here next week.

FOR SALE—Chairs, carpets, matting, linoleum, bedstead, commode, feather-bed, range, heater, etc. Apply to W. C. Lyman, State street and 12th avenue.

F. W. Doubt went to Kipp on Sunday night. From there he proceeded to Lethbridge Monday, to represent Blairmore lodge at the Grand Lodge sessions of the I. O. O.F. convening in that city.

The Jeanne Russell Co. will positively appear in the Blairmore opera house on Monday and Tuesday next. Don't fail to book your seats early, as a crowded house is never known to fail this popular leader. Their introductory on Monday night, "The American Girl" is one of the world's masterpieces.

The Jeanne Russell Co. who were to have appeared in the Blairmore opera house on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, were obliged to postpone the arrangements for one week in response to an urgent call to appear for one week in Lethbridge, and appear here on Monday and Tuesday next, Feb. 26 and 27.

J. R. Crawford has been appointed chief agent for the Gourlay, Winter & Leaming pianos within a radius of fifty miles east and west of Blairmore and will handle the Gourlay McMillan, Angelus & Gourlay-Angelus pianos and piano players. Stock now on hand in Sargent building. Vacancies for one or two pupils.

The local "chinks" availed of their last privilege of celebrating the New Year on February 17th, when on Saturday they made matters merry by the use of the usual "fire clackers and a little-a-more dlink." This celebration was continued intermittently ever since and you couldn't squeeze out of a Chinaman a greater smile than he has been wearing.

Rocky Mountain Sanatorium

at Frank, which has just received a change in managership. Mr. P. E. Gemen, who opened this institution over a year ago, has resigned and Mr. E. Bernard is now in charge. While under Mr. Gemen's care, the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium was the cause of dispelling many aches and pains and hundreds suffering severely from rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, stiff joints and similar complaints, were cured and, like Naaman of old, went on their way rejoicing. The beneficial qualities of these famous sulphur springs have not been one bit over estimated. We understand that some changes will be made and that Mr. Bernard will give even a better service than heretofore.

Last League Game

Frank and Blairmore hockey teams met for the last league game of the season Thursday night on the Blairmore rink. After 45 minutes of play the score stood 7-1 in favor of Blairmore. The game throughout was fairly clean, the referee, M. Rhynas, being on the job all the time. Smith and Goddard showed some inclination to mix things, so were given some minutes on the fence to cool off. Rourke, of the Frank team, received a nasty cut on the face but was able to finish out the game after a few minutes rest.

The Blairmore boys put up a fine combination game and clearly showed their superiority over the Frank team in this respect. Of course the Frank septette was somewhat handicapped owing to the smallness of the rink, which they were unaccustomed to. The following is the line up:

Frank		Blairmore
McGowan	goal	Ford
Hughes	point	C. Lewis
Rourke	c point	S. Lewis
McKay	rover	Turner
Scott	centre	Goddard
Smith	l. wing	Horton
McLeod	r. wing	Baker

Dr. Baker at the Guild

The young people who were fortunate enough to attend the Guild on Monday evening last listened to a lecture that was most pleasingly given as well as profitable, The subject was "The Cure and Prevention of Crime." The doctor showed how poverty, ignorance and idleness were the chief causes of crime. If these could be removed and better environment provided that a great portion of the present criminal tendencies would be removed.

Resignation of Mr. A. A. Muller

The Canadian Consolidated Coal Co. of Frank, Alta., have lately been deprived of their general manager, Mr. Muller. Mr. Muller has served the company faithfully for upwards of four years, and during the whole period has always had the respect of his employees and the confidence of his directors. It is therefore with real regret that the company has accepted Mr. Muller's resignation.

Mr. Muller becomes president of the newly organized Keystone Cement Co., and will continue to be a resident of Frank, where we know he will be active as always, in all that pertains to the best welfare of the town. While the coal company regret Mr. Muller's absence, the Keystone Cement Co. are to be congratulated on securing a man of Mr. Muller's ability and foresight as their president. His acceptance of this position insures certain and immediate success to this new industry, that means so much to both Frank and Blairmore.

The loss of Mr. Muller has necessitated several changes in the management of the Canadian Consolidated Coal Co. Mr. Bernard has temporarily filled the position of general manager, but now a new arrangement takes place whereby this office shall in a measure be dispensed with, but the responsibilities of the office shall be shared by Messrs. A. Rotteleur and Tomkins—the former technical manager and secretary—respectively. The company is of the opinion that the joint superintendency will greatly further the company's interests.

We heartily congratulate the above named gentlemen on this important promotion in the company's confidence.

Mr. Bernard is now manager of the Sanatorium, but expects to return to France in a few months. In the meantime it is Mr. Bernard's desire to make this one of the great health resorts of Western Canada.

The general public who know the curative value of these sulphur waters, are in hearty sympathy with Mr. Bernard's wishes, and believe that under his management this famous resort will receive the attention and reparation that rightly belongs to it.

Established Business Changes Hands

The old established and well-known firm of Mar On and the Blairmore Cash Trading Co. has been sold to Thompson & Company. The new firm will take over the business on April 1st.

Mar On purposes leaving The Pass shortly to engage in the wholesale importing business in Hong Kong, China. His many patrons keenly regret his removal from the business activities of The Pass, and their best wishes will go with him in his new and more extensive operations.

The new company are to be congratulated on succeeding to a business so well established, and enjoying such a large proportion of the public confidence.

Coleman Jottings

Mrs. Morgan, of Lundbreck, is visiting relatives here.

Samuel Hadfield is attending the miners' convention at Lethbridge.

A. Manuel, proprietor of the Frank Hotel, was in town Monday night.

J. Swann went to Lethbridge on Monday night as a delegate from Coleman lodge, I. O. O. F., to Grand Lodge sessions.

Mrs. E. Eacott went to Lethbridge Wednesday, where she will spend a short while with friends and couple business with pleasure.

Andy Good, of Crow's Nest, was in town this week to attend the burial rites of his mother who passed away at the hospital on Friday morning last.

Much regret is felt at the serious illness of Miss Marguerite Porter. Miss Porter contracted a chill after the recent ladies' hockey game in Blairmore, and is at present in a very critical condition.

Roy Hogarth, of the Coleman Hotel, left this week for a brief holiday trip to the coast. En route Roy will stop at all the principal cities between the monarchial Rockies and Vancouver Island.
